RUFFIANS IN MOTT HAVEN.

CRIMES OF A GANG OF YOUNG MEN.

TROUBLE LIKELY TO BE STOPPED. TROUBLE LIKELY TO BE STOPPED.

The people of Mott Haven and lower Morrisania were kept in constant fear last fall by the depredations of a gang of roughs who, after nightfall, took possession of street-cars and robbed passengers, stole heats from floats along the Harlem River, and made it unsafe for any woman to leave her home. The action of the Thirty-third Precinct police was not energetic at first, and it was not until the Captain was astonished at the number of demands he received for permits to carry pistols that he decided to assume the aggressive against the ruffians. After special policemen had been placed on usually vacant posts and the offenders had become acquainted with their presence, everything became quiet, and Mott Haven was the abode of law and peace.

vacant posts and the offenders had become acquainted with their presence, everything became quiet, and Mott Haven was the abode of law and peace.

For nearly three months the quiet continued; then complaints again began pouring into the police-station. On January 2 an aged woman complained to a policeman at One-hundred-and-thirty-fourth-st. and Third-aye., that she had been met by time young feliows ranging from eighteen to twenty-one years of age and had been dragged into a vacant lot on One-hundred-and-thirty-fifth-st. between Lincoln and Alexander aves., and assaulted They then stole her money and left her. When she told the officer her story her mouth was bleeding profusely. Two nights later four young raffians boarded a Tremont car in which were two men and a girl, at One-hundred-and-fifty-third-st. They robbed the driver of $2, deprived the men of their silver watches, and insulted the girl. Mrs. Anna Rymann, a poor German woman, living in the Southern Boulevard, near One-hundred-and-forty-seventh-st., was returning home after her work, about miduight on February 1, and was followed by two young men to a pic-nic park, a short distance beyond Willis-ave. There she was assaulted and left insensible on the ground. She was found by a milkman in the early morning and taken to her home.

Two nights ago Dr. Horace Tucker, of Mott Haven, was called to see a patient a short distance from his home. As he was returning from his call he was met by two men in Alexander-ave. One of them asked him the time. Dr. Tucker had looked at his watch a short time previous and had noticed that it was 11 o'clock. He told the men that it was three minutes after the hour. They demanded the right time and made a motion as though to seize him. The physician told them to wait a moment, and placing his hand within his overcoat drew a revolver. Thereupon the rogues ran away.

At Alexander-ave, and the Southern Boulevard is a row of four-story brick buildings, which are rented as tenements. They have only been built a trifle over two year men are all young and most of them under age. They do not seem to fear identification, for they do not assume any disguise.

Last Tuesday Captain Bennett, in charge of the Thirty-third Precinct, who is the oldest captain on the force, directed his patroimen to watch the supposed headquarters of the gang closely, and to arrest any person of suspicious appearance. In consequence for the last week the unusual spectacle of policemen patrolling Alexander, Lincoln and Willis aves, has been presented to the dwellers of Mott Haven. Where there was formerly only one officer there are now two, and on Wednesday night women who left their homes on errands were respectfully escorted back to them by the policemen, or else warned that Mott Haven was a bad place for women to be out of doors in at night. Thus far nothing has resulted from Captain Barnett's efforts to clear his precinct from criminals. The great iron foundry on the bank of the Harlem River, and a number of small factories in Morrisania and Port Morris demand a great number of tworkmen, and the reputation for sobriety of some of them are not of the best. There is in addition to the grog-shop mentioned a so-called "sporting house" at One-hundred-and-thirtieth-st, and Thirdave, where a number of roughs gather nightly to witness alleged sparring matches. The police have been watching the place for a long time and are suspicious that from this shop come the ruffians who have so successfully terrified persons who are forced to be out-of-doors in the Thirty-third Precinct after dark.

Nothwithstanding the failure of the police to root

Nothwithstanding the failure of the police to root the gangs out last autumn Captain Bureatt is confident that he has secured clews which will lead to the capture of the ruffians. Not only are half of the reserves on duty at night, but the ward detectives, assisted by several of Inspector Byrnes's men, are collecting evidence which may put a stop to the trouble. The police, since the crimes have been repeated this winter, have striven to keep the knowledge away from the public. The misdeeds were so aggravated, however, that had not the police taken action when they did, the citizens would have taken the matter in their own hands.

DEATH OF A WELL-KNOWN HORSEMAN.

Information of the death of Charies Weeks, age 33, a well-known horseman, was received at the Bureau of Vital Statistics yesterday. Mr. Weeks died on Friday evening in his stable, No. 225 West Fifty-eighth-st., where he had apartments adjoining the boxes of his favorite horses. He had been suffering from Bright's disease for several months, but he had a superstitious belief that so long as he could keep on his feet he could prevent the disease from gaining power over him and he persisted it going about his stable every day until Friday afternoon. Until recently he was a Washington Market butcher. When Commodore Vanderbilt was alive Mr. Weeks had many races with him on the road. A favorite attinual which Mr. Weeks drove in those days was known as the "Blue Mare." She had no record on the turf, but few horses could pass her on the road. Mr. Weeks began last year to boild a large and expensive boarding stable, which proved too heavy 2 load for him on account of some financial reverses. He had never married but had lived alone in his stable pany years. He was a member of the Gentlemen's Driving Association, of the Elks Society and of two or three social clubs. His life had been eccentric for several years, but not in a way to cause much remark. His body will be buried tomorrow. DEATH OF A WELL-KNOWN HORSEMAN.

EFFECT OF DRINK ON A WOMAN.

Mrs. Mary Leigh, a ladylike woman, age thirtyfive, who formerly moved in the best society, was brought before Justiee Waish, in Brooklyn yesterday, charged with habitual drunkenness, by two ladies of the Church of the HolyTrinity. When her commitment to the loebriates' Home was signed she sprished as with sharp and sudden pain, and begged to be allowed to go free, saying toat she would die in "that strong jail." In vain her friends assured her that she was culy going to Fort Hamilton to be cured. The nearly crazed woman called down the commitment. Mrs. Leigh's father died about ten years ago, leaving her a fortune. She mairried and had one son, and then her husband died. This loss weighed heavily on her mind and she took to drink.

LIQUOR-PEALERS AND THE EXCISE BOARD. POLICE ROUSED TO ACTIVITY AT LAST-THE LIQUOR-PEALERS AND THE EXCISE BOARD.

Jacob Fromme, the counsel of several liquorsellers' associations, was asked by a Tribunk reporter yest-stday, how liquor-sellers regard the attitude of the Excise Commissioners in their efforts to revoke the license held by any person who may have committed an offence against the excise law within three years? Mr. Fromme said:

The Excise Commissioners appear wholly ignorant of their own duties and of the law. They go from one extreme to the other. Before the recent addresses of Judge Davis to the Grand Jury, they gave licenses in the most wholesale manner; since the presentments against them by the Grand Jury, they have gone to the other extreme.
They have been even doing the work belonging alone to the police—that is, watching places which have no licenses. They are really concerned only with determining whe places should be licensed, or from what sellers licenses should be taken. The fault lies with the policejustices and the judges in the General and Special Sessious. The law of 1857 expressiy provides that, in order to enable the Excise Commissioners to revoke the license of a liquor-seller because of a violation of the Excise law, the judge of the court in which the conviction is made must send to the Commissioners a transcript of the proceedings. In this regard the judges have been notably derelict. Transcripts have not been furnished. That derelict, it is action of the Excise Board is unauthorized; and it is right there that we make our stand against them. In the next instance, when a liquor-seller receives a notice that his license has been revoked, I shall apply for an injunction restraining the Board from interfering with the hiquor-seller, on the ground that the court has furnished no transcript of the proceedings in which the seller was convicted of violating the law.

INSURANCE NEWS AND INCIDENTS.

A Broadway fire underwriter has discovered, by a close study of fire statistics, that the cloud of smoke arising from the destruction of property worth $100,000,000 in the United States every year, hangs heaviest over New-England and the Middle Atlantic States, the upper lake region, the Florida peninsula and the Southern Atlantic States. The Pacific State, the Ohio valley and the Missonri valley, perhaps are relatively free from this cloud, and fire insurance companies there may catch occasional glimpses of the sky; but in the localities first mentioned the smoky fog is unending and unlifting. The plateau comprising parts of Nevada, Utah and Arizona is extremely hot, as are also the areas of Texas and Arkansas, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Virginia and parts of West Virginia have a clearer atmosphere, but the upper part of Michigan is warm and consequently black and smoky to the Fire Underwriters vision. Isosthermal belts, in a fire insurance way, may be traced from Wyoming, through Nebraska, Iowa, and almost directly eastward to New-Jersey; a belt of greater warmth from the northwest corner of Missouri, through Tennessee and the Carolinas; another one of about similar intensity from Michigan through Lower Canada curving upward through New-York and New-England to Maine, and still a hotter zone from Washington Territory obliquely to Arizona. That is the fire tax on the the property valuation may be compared in about this manner.

DEATH FROM AN OVERDOSE OF MORPHINE Dr. J. W. Sherfy, a well-known physician of extensive practice, died from an overdose of morphine, taken to allay the pains of toothache, at his home, No. 703 Fourth-ave., Brooklyn. on Thursday. He was attacked on Tuesday, and his sufferings increased, so that he took the first dose on Wednesday, and on Thursday took a heavier dose. He left a card to his housekeeper asking her to wake him up if he slept too long, as he feared the effect of the dose. She was unable to rouse him after he had slept several hours, and three doctors were called in, but could not restore him to consciousness, and he died on the following day. He was suffering with Bright's disease, which rendered the action of the drug highly dangerous. He was tifty years of age, was born in the West, and was graduated from Long Island College Hospital in 1861. He served as a surgeon in the army, and afterward continued his studies in London and Paris. He was unmarried, and he has an only brother in Chicago. Dr. Sherfy was a member of Thatford Post, No. 3, Grand Army of the Republic. He had been presented with a number of medals for various services. DEATH FROM AN OVERDOSE OF MORPHINE

A POLICEMAN RIGHTLY PUNISHED.

John Foley, a waiter, living at No. 21 West-st., was standing at West and Liberty sts, yesterday morning, when Officer Brogan, of the Twenty-seventh Precinct, ordered him to move. He did not comply at once and the policeman raised his club. Before it descended Foley grabbed it and dealt the officer a blow in the face. He then quietly submitted to arrest. At the Tombs Police Court a charge of assault and battery was preferred against him. He acknowledged having struck his accuser and related the circumstance. Brogan did not deny the truth of the statement, whereupon the magistrate dismissed the complaint and indorsed on the affidavit, "Defendant dismissed because the officer, by his own testimony, made a threatening blow at the defendant without provocation of any kind." BRINGING A SHOP-LIFTER FROM BOSTON.

Elizabeth Ellen Wiggins, better known to the police as, "Mollie" Hoey, alias Hollbrook, was locked up at Police Headquarters last night as a fugutive from justice. Detective-Sergeants Hickey and Von Gerichten brought her from Boston on a requisition signed by Governor Cleveland. She was arrested for robbing a customer in Macy's store about two years ago and furnished bail for trial. When her case was called she had disappeared from the city, but she was rearrested soon afterward, convicted and sentenced to five years imprisonment in the Penitentiary. Her counsel procured a stay of proceedings and carried the case to the Court of Appeals on a motion for a new trial. Meanwhile she procured bail again and went to Boston where she was caught in the act of stealing in a store and sent to prison for a year. The Court of Appeals recently reaffirmed her conviction in this city and she was taken from the prison in Boston upon the exsiration of her term there.
